VOLUME IV, NUMBER 25 THE GOLD CENTER NEVADA CITY, NEVADA COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, THE COUNTY SEAT PAPER MAY 5, 1930

TWIN SISTER IS SHOWING A GOOD GROWTH

President Ray O. Foster of Ukiah, who has been making a week's inspection of the workings of the Twin Sister mine at Snow Point, reported while in town last week on his way home that good progress was being made in opening up ground in preparation for installing milling facilities by summer and getting the mine onto a production basis after a long period of development.

Consulting Engineer Fred M. Miller of Grass Valley went up with Mr. Foster to look over the property and expressed himself as being highly impressed with the apparent values in the property for profitable production once sufficient ore has been blocked out to make milling feasible for steady production.

The extension of the Tunnel No. 3 to cut another ledge and the drifting on the large ledge cut earlier, are making good progress. With an adequate electric power supply, work has made much better speed than under the old system necessary. Machine drills are handling the hard formation nicely and indications are for much new ledge matater in the tunnel.

ENGLEBRIGHT STATES CANDIDACY CONGRESS

The following contained in a personal letter to the publisher of The Nugget contains the formal announcement of the candidacy of Harry L. Englebright to succeed himself in Congress where he has made a wonderful record for such a young man and who has been of inestimable value to his far flung district:

"In the August Primary, I will be a candidate for reelection to the office of representative in Congress from the Second Cngressional District of California. It will be my purpose to continue the fight here in Congress for the great mining, agricultural, lumber, stock and all other interests of the District.

"After this session of Congress, I expect to visit all sections of the District."

Needless to state The Nugget is most happy to endorse the candidacy of Mr. Englebright who has proven a tower of strength in Congress and who deserves on the record he has made while there in behalf of his District, to be triumphantly returned to represent us for the coming term

GREAT MASTERS ON EXHIBITION HERE

There will be a display of paramount interest at our high school next week, May 7-9, an art exhibit. More than one hundred fifty pictures that you want to see and should know something about. You wish to keep up with your children in school. They are learning to recognize these pictures and to know something of the artist who painted them. In addition to your enjoyment in this collection you will assist in raising a fund for the purchase of pictures for our schools, and they are badly needed.

FISHING SEASON GOOD

Several good catches were made on the opening day of fishing season Thursday. Bob Ingram showed that he was no mean artist in swinging the fly by landing a 14-inch rainbow from Lake Vera. Francis Hogan headed a party for upper Deer creek and reported bulging creels. Until the muddy water is out of the Yubas not much fishing can be expected from the larger streams.

Ray Sparnon caught caught the limit of loch leven and rainbow in Rock creek below Laxe Vera. James Hocking hooked a 17-inch beauty and a number of foot length ones. Lawrence Wood, fishing above Van Giesen, landed a 17-incher.

Mrs. Carl Johnson, who has been visitig here for a short time, returned to her home at Alleghany.

GOLDEN STATE MINES TAKES UP SOUTH FORK

A. E. Place of Los Angeles has assigned his lease and bond on the South Fork mines at Forest to the Golden State Mines, Ltd., a Nevada corporation, owned by A. J. Charle of Pomona and K. P. Briggs of Los Angeles. The new company is a closed crporation and will carry on tis operations through a subsidiary company. Mr. Place retains an interest in the South Fork Mining Company, owner of the property. It is proposed to operate the property extensively as soon as summer has sufficiently advanced to permit the hauling in of supplies and machinery. J. Y. Owenby is superintendent.

BALD MOUNTAIN WILL OPERATE AT FOREST

The Bald Mountain mine at Forest which has had a notable past production is to be opened up this summer by the Nevada Monarch Gold Mining Company which commenced operations last year. General Manager F. W. Powers and Superintendent Scott are now on the ground making ready to commence operations.

The tunnel is being cleaned out and retimbered where necessary. Machinery and supplies are being taken in and the crew will be enlarged as operations progress. The company is also expecting to develop its quartz ledges which were never worked before as previous operators were after the rich gravel. The reported production of the Bald Mountain was approximataely four million dollars and there is said to be much rich gravel remaining.

DUFFEY ENTHUSIASTIC BOOSTER MAYOR ROLPH

George L. Duffey, prominently connected with the Mayflower mines at Foresthill, has bee spending several days in this section visiting his friends, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Uren and sounding out sentiment for Mayor Jim Rolph of San Francisco who aspires to be governor of California. Duffey is enthusiastic for friend Jim whom he has known for a long time intimately and says he would make one of the best governors that the Golden State has ever known.

Mr. Duffey expects to organize the Rolph adherents in this and nearby counties into working organizations to round up the voters prior to the August primaries.

FOREST SERVICE MOVE ELKS BUILDING SOON

The Forest Service headquarters, which have bee i the Beetts' building on Broad street for a number of years, will remove by July 1st to the lower floor of the Elks building on Pine street which has been leased fro a period of ten years by the government. The new quarters are those formerly occupied by the Nevada City Hardware Company.

The new quarters which are on the ground floor will prove more readily available to government needs when they have been rebuilt. New windows are to be cut in the south wall to provide more light and facilities will be provided for the trucks to drive directly into the rear of hte building for loading and unloading supplies which will prove a great convenience. Work of refitting the interior will be commenced at an early date so that the building may be ready for occupancy by July 1st.

FORMER NEWSPAPER OWNER

LION DELEGATES IMPRESSED WITH NEVADA COUNTY

The convention of the Lions Clubs held at Nevada City and Grass Valley Saturday was largely attended from distant points and the delegates expressed themselves as highly pleased at oming up into these historic mountains. International officers present for the occasion were District Governor Sam Carpenter of Southern California and Charles Adams of Berkeley, group president. International President Ray L. Riley is in the east and was unable to be present. The delegates were met at Saramento Friday evening by Club Presidents George R. Carter and Eben K. Smart.

The business session got under way Saturday morning in Elks Hall followed by a noon luncheon in the building. The luncheon speaker was Hary Tyler of the Sacramento Junior College who took for his subject, "Psychology of Happiness." The business sessions wound up during the afternoon and a gala night was staged at the National Hotel where the Lions and their ladies enjoyed a sumptuous banquet esrved by Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Worth followed by speaking, dancing and cards.

Yesterday a motor trip was taken to the Joubert mine at Indian Hill where the monitors were put to work washing down the hillside into the sluie boxes. At noon a regular ranger lunch was served by the Forest Service under supervilon of Dick Bigelow who is an ardent Lion.

LITTLE NUGGET MINE OPERATING STEADILY

One monitor with a crew of four men is handling a good yardage of gravel at the Little Nugget mine on the South Fork near Downiivelle at the present time with plenty of water in sight from Nigger Canyon. The monitor is now set several hundred feet upstream from the former pit. There are two gravel channels paralleling each other on the property.

STATE MINE BUREAU HAS MINING REQUESTS

The monthly Commercial Mineral Notes issued by hte state mining bureau for April carries some requests for mines and mineral that may prove of interest to some of our readers and they are herewith appended:

83-20—Gold placer that one or two men can work by hand;

83-21—Corundum, deposit or tonnage.

83-22—Quartz Crystals;

83-23 — Iceland Spar, Optical Fluorspar and Quartz Crystals;

83-24—Variscite in the rough;

83-25—Molybdenum, deposits or tonnage;

83-26—Deposit of Copper-Gold, carbonate or oxide ore for leaching;

83-27—Coarse grained volcanic ash, 100 mesh or coarser.

Names and addresses corresponding to key numbers are on file in the offices of the bureau in the Ferry Building, San Francisco, or State Office Building, Sacramento, to which inquiries should be addressed. The name and address corresponding to any key number will be supplied on request.

BESSLER NEW EMPLOYE

In line with its policy of increasing its facilities to keep pace with business, Thomas Bessler of Downieville has taken charge of the mechanical department of The Nugget, handling particularly the linotype composition which has become quite heavy with the advent of eight page issue. His previous experience in daily paper composition and as a printer will make him a valuable adjunct to this office. Tom is a Downieville boy and his many friends in Sierra county will be glad to learn that he is to remain near home in his chosen profession.—(Pub.)

Amie Marie Walker spent several hours Wednesday afternoon in Sacramento visiting friends and on business.

BRUSH CREEK MINE SHOWS GOOD VALUES

Conditions continue bright at the Brush Creek mine above Goodyears Bar according to President Ben F. Ballard of Santa Rosa who was in Nevada City last week on his way to the property on an inspection trip. The mill is operating steadily on good ore with a large tonnage blocked out ready for milling.

New ground is being opened up by running raises around the old works and there is every indication of operating up an extensive ore body above the 800 level.

The vein at places in the present workings runs up to 36 feet wide with good average milling ore for the entire width which is a remarkable showing for any mine. The vein has been opened up for a distance of 300 feet on the 800 level and with the large amount of backs it will not be necessary to go deeper for some time although the company is laying plans to deepen the shaft at a latter date. The ore being milled shows good average values on the plates and is largely free milling.

The Brush Creek is one of the promising profitable producers that has been developed of late years in the district.

ESTATE STARTED IN 1878 NOW IN COURT

One item of interest occurring in the calling of the court calender Friday was in the Buckett estate which had been pending in the local court since 1878, over 52 years.

It goes back to the time when James T. Buckett and John Pohlglase were killed at the Idaho Maryland mine. George S. Huph appeared as the atatorney for the estate. John Caldwell was the probabe judge and James D. White was the clerk. Deputy Clerk Frank Stell recals hearing his father tell of the double tragedy and the double funeral.

Mrs. Twitchell, the present administratrix, succeeds her mother, Mrs. Mary Ann Buckett, who acted for the estate for a number of years.

MINER'S ORGANIZATION

The farmers slogan "there is no substitute for membership" might well be taken to heart by the miners. The farmers are slowly gaining their rights by a "stick-to-itiveness" that is slowly but surely gaining them their rights. Neither the Secretary nor any of the officers upon whom fall the burden of the newly organized Miner's Association of California draw any salary or remuneration of any kind.

There are certain necessary expenses that are cared for by the small membership of five dollars per year.

Your membership in the organization will go a long way to give heart to those who are working for the god and benefit of all miners in the state.

Do your part by sending in your name and five dollars to Secretary Willoughby.

JAMES D. STEWART,
Chairman.

SANFORD CELEBRATES

WOLF, May 1.—Benjamin Sanford celebrated his 98th birthday here Sunday at the home of his son, Wallace J. Sanford, with four generations of the family present for the occasion. A huge birthday cake with the requisite number of candles was duly cut and enjoyed. The birthday of a daughter, Mrs. Ida Barnes of Berkeley was also celebrated.

Butting into the porch posts along the north side of Broad street above pine seema to be a favorite pastime with some machine drivers. A truck butted one off its pedestal Friday afternoon and nearly brought the roof down.

W. E. Moulton and N. B. Bishop, promnent Frenh Corral residents, were business visitors Friday. They also called on Grass Valley during the day.

CALIFORNIA ACLARE TO START OPERATIONS

The California Aclare Mining Company operating the Eureka Tomboy group at Forest is expecting to put its mill into operation i na few days on ore which has been accumulating on the dumps for some time. A quarter of mile of road is being built from the mine to the county road where the mill is located. It is expected at a later date to install an aerial tramway to handle the ore between the mine and the mill. A three compartment shaft on the Tomboy is contemplated. There are eight ledges on the property, all carrying good values.

R. D. Dorris is president and manager.

MONTE CARLO MINE IS TO BEGIN OPERATIONS

Antone Lavezzola and Steve Dondero of Downieville and Ed Poggi have bonded the Monte Carlo drift mine on the North Fork in Sierra County to P. B. Steifer f Magalia and C. A. Lewis and W. J. Lewis of Chico who expect to commence work at an early date.

The mine has a good past production record although the main channel sought was never found and it is the intention of the new operators to locate it. The property has been idle for some years.

STOLL ANNOUNCES FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY

The latest etry in the county political arena is Vernon Stoll of Grass Valley who aspires to the office of district attorney. Mr. Stoll's announcement of his candidacy created more than a ripple of excitement in the campaign as he is one of the younger generation to seek politial prestige.

A native Californian, he was eduated in the schools and a graduate of the University of California from the literary and legal departments, he has been admitted to practic before the various courts of the state.

He practiced in Alameda county prior to locating in Grass Valley and has shown himself possessed of considerable ability as a barrister. He has taken an active interest in community affairs in Grass Valley.

I soliciting the support of the voters in his candidacy, Mr. Stoll pledges himself to conscientious work and efficiency in the office of district atatorney if elected and states that he will keep closely in mind the public welfare and will endeavor at all times to conserve the ends of justice.

Mr. Stoll worked for the funds to put himself through school and feels that he has the view point of the wage earner and realizes the necssity of economy in public affairs.

FIRE PREVENTION IS TO BE DEMONSTRATED

A fire prevention demonstration will be held at the Nevada High School on Wednesday, May 7, at 10:30 a. m. by Extension Forester Woodbridge Metcalf of the University of California College of Agriculture, J. P. Fairbank Agriculture Engineer of the College of Agriculture at Davis, W. F. Sharpe, State Forest Ranger, with the State Division of Forestry at Sacramento and the Nevada City Fire Department. They have with them the Fire Demonstration truck of the University Farm at Davis and one of the eight big fire trucks of the State Division of Forestry.

The demonstration consists of the ropper handling of gasoline and enalcing solvents, control of gasoline and cleaning solvents, control of gasoline, oil and other fires, different types of fire extinguishers, causes of electrical fires, the effectss of forest, brush and range fires on the soils and the use of the city fire alarm systems.

This demonstration is both entertaining and instructive and everyone is invited to attend.

There will also be a demonstration at Columbus school at Grass Valley at 2:30 p. m. on the same day.

LITHOGRAPH OF NEVADA CITY IN 1856 OF INTEREST

Through the efforts of Mrs. Belle Douglas a lithographed view of Nevada City as it was in the exciting days of 1856 was installed in the lobby of the court house last week. Mrs. Douglas discvered the old print while looking over some old rleics at the home of Ben Waite on lower Deer Creek and Mr. Waite has kindly consented to part with it so that it may fittingly be preserved to posterity.

The picture was badly stained and was torn entirely in two lengthwise. It was turned over to Ed. C. Uren who bleached it and mounted it and has almost succeeded in obliterating hte marks of the torn places.

The print, reproduced on stone by Kuchel and Dresel and printed by Britton & Rey of San Francisco, was from a viewpoint on the south side of Little Deer Creek and, although it shows a hydraulic embankment of small extent up near the head of coyote street and another at the apparent head of West Broad street, the whole ridge, covered with pine timber, is intact from Deer Creek north beyond Sugar Loaf. Numerous tall trees trimmed of their lower branches are a noticeable part of the view; some of them are located on Broad street.

This scene was evidently made before the big fire of July 19, 1856, when practically the whole town was destroyed. On May 24, 1858, fire again wiped out most of the wooden buildings of this little city, but the brick buildings escaped. In 1863, however, Nevada City was again almost completely swept by fire over te same area as in 1856, the court house and all the churches, with the exception of the Baptist being destroyed. This church is to be seen in the old print at its present site, now the home of E. T. R. Powell on Pine street.

A low, timber trussed bridge is noted crossing Deer Creek at the site of the present steel bridge on Pine street. This bridge was aater replaced by a suspension bridge costing $15,000 and completed in May, 1862 .It was only six weeks after this bridge was thrown open to travel, however, when a defetive casting anchoring one of the wire cables broke under the strain of a load of hay being drawn by oxen and ten oxen and two men were precipitated into the creek and killed.

At the site of the Plaza Grocery may be seen just a glimpse of the iron railing guarding the west side of the Broad street bridge across Deer Creek. These points are not of consequence but they serve to identify old buildings in the picture with the scene as we view it today.

Surrounding the main view of the city are separate views of the principal business houses and residences of the time, while upon the streets, in order to give the scene life, are th efigures of men and women dressed in the fashion of the day; the women with the old bell-shaped polonaise and, almost without exception, the long shawl draped over the shulders and the poke bonnet.

We cannot help but digress here for a moment on the somber garb of the ladies of '56 as compared to the dress of hte present day flapper. Compare the eyeful one can get without effort nowadays with that of a man who might stand all day on a corner in '56 and get nothing for his efforts more than a fleeting glimpse of an ankle or the edge of a red petticoat—for it was about this time that a bit of turned up red on hte bottom of these contraptions was quite the proper thing.

The men appear with high top hats and long, ministerial coats that remind one forcibly of the figures now used by cartoonists to depict the ardent prohibitionist.

The city brewery is there, too, kegs and all, run by J. Blasauf, over on Spring street, who advertises that he kept "an inexhaustible supply of the very best lager beer." And the old Wells Fargo building and its competitor, the Pacific Express; the Metropolis stable, run by Lancaster who kept horses "free from vicious habits, of fine style and capable of

Grecian Influence on Culture of Old Rome

Almost as far back as the history of Rome extends Greek influences are to be traced in the development of Roman culture. The Roman people were conservative and slow to cultivate the artistic sense. Rome had little creative genius. In her whole history she did not produce an artist such as Phidias and Praxiteles. The nature of the Roman was unusually practical and idealized power, law and profit. The Romans never created a distinctive style of architecture such as the Greeks. They borrowed their architecture from the Etruscans and the Greeks. The literary life of Rome has a profound effect upon mankind—Cicero with his orations, political and educational treatises; Caesar with his commentaries on the Gallic war; Sallust with his history of Rome; the poets Lucretius and Catullus. These poets, however, do not compare with the Iliad and Odyssey of Homer, the Greek philosophers Plato and Aristotle, Socrates, Xenophon and the orators Lyais and Isocrates.

American Ice Sheets

In North America three ice sheets have been identified. The Labradorean in the northeast had its center in northern Quebec, whence it spread in every direction to the south. Its flow covered most of eastern Canada and reached as far as New York and Cincinnati. The Keewatin sheet, radiating from relatively low ground to west of the Hudson bay, on the one hand came into confluence with the Labradorean sheet, and on the other hand met the third sheet. The Cordilleran diverges from an axis southwest of the Rocky mountains and in its full development may have come in contact with the Keewatin. In the southwest it reached Vancouver and the Pacific ocean. The driftless area of Wisconsin 300 miles within the lobate front of the Keewatin and the Labradorean sheet was left untouched. Just why this area escaped is by no means clear.

Sound Was the Same

Considering the short time the maid had been in this country she had been quick to master a new language, but once in a while encountered words that were puzzling in their import.

One morning the master of the house came down to breakfast and found that some flies had got into the room. He called the maid.

"Hilda, please bring me the fly swatter."

She looked undecided. "Bring you what, sir?"

He repeated, "Fly swatter."

Hilda nodded, went away and soon returned with—a glass of ice water.—Brockton Enterprise.

Advice Worth the Money

A novice who, deciding at last to ignore his friends' advice and to try and make his fortune on the racecourse, answered a tipster's advertisement which ran:

"Horses to follow, horses to watch, and horses to avoid. Send $5 for the best and soundest advice."

The money was sent and in due course the good and sound advice was received. It ran:

"Horses to follow, hearse horses; horses to watch, hobby horses; horses to avoid, racehorses."—Exchange.

Ram Literally Butted Himself to Bitter End

A farmer named Darby had a ram. This ram could have taken the blue ribbon in the butter class at any fair. He would butt anything in sight, especially if it was moving.

Darby was a patient man but after the ram had butted everything on the farm, including Darby himself, he vowed vengeance. So one morning when he and his family were going to be gone for the day he suspended a heavy post-maul by a rope from a tree limb and turned the ram loose. The ram, seeing the maul swinging, made a rush for it. He hit it a blow that sent it swinging more. The maul, on the return trip, hit him on the head but he didn't mind it; in fact it merely made him call out his reserve powers.

Darby and his family grew tired of watching the duel between the ram and the maul, so they went to town. Toward evening they returned and the first thing they did was to visit the dueling ground. They saw the maul swinging—and they wondered what had become of the ram.

Then on going closer they found that the ram had actually worn himself out butting the maul. All that was left of him was a piece of his tail about as long as your thumb.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Canadian Writer Says Good Word for "Bunny"

Rabbits have been much in the news of late. A motorist has put on record the fact that he had to travel at thirty-four miles an hour to keep up with a rabbit that was running in front of his car. Then, Russia decided to raise rabbits by the million for food. But the rabbit, in spite of its smallness and timidity, has had a way of making a noise in the world. It is a curse to gardeners and farmers even in this country, and in Australia it quickly became a national menace. In this connection a good story is told of a newcomer to the Island continent—a Scot—who asked an Australian if there were many Scots in Australia. "Yes," was the immediate reply, "but our real plague is the rabbit!" But—even though the Australian won't believe it—rabbits are luckbringers. Say "White Rabbits" three times first thing on the first day of each month, and you're in for four weeks of good fortune! So, at least, runs the story. —Montreal Family Herald.

Beauty in Great Bridge

There is beauty of a different and stupendous kind in the bridges that connect Manhattan island with Brooklyn or the mainland. Your first feeling at these bridges is always one of admiration, even of awe, for modern engineering. . . . To stand on the East river docks and see the gigantic, wirespun, airy boulevard of the Brooklyn bridge go leaping up into space and descend in a curve of marvelous grace into the granite gorges of lower Manhattan is to experience a sensation no other city on earth can offer you. . . . It would have been from the footpath of this bridge, too, that Wordsworth would have written his sonnet to Manhattan—we wonder in what spirit of solemn awe?—Walter Prichard Eaton, in "Green Trails and Upland Pastures."

"Scandinavian" Peoples

The word "Scandinavian" is of Latin adaptation and its etymology is not certain. In a strict sense it relates only to the Scandinavian peninsula and its people, Norwegians and Swedes. In a broader sense it included also Denmark, Iceland, and all the contiguous islands inhabited by the Scandinavian branch of the Germanic race. The Swedish elements in Finland are also generally included.

COZY CORNER CHAT

LISTEN TO THIS ONE from the Siskiyou News published Yreka: T. L. Brophy of the Metals Development Company operating the Jack Lowden claims in Seiad Valley, says: "Siskiyou county offers a field worhty of development. It is about the last field, save Trinity county, left for profitable mining investment in the state. All others, being more readily accessible to transportation, have been practically worked out." Now isn't that a pretty how do you do for all the other gold mining counties of the state. Such statements as that are a travesty on the mining profession. There isn't such a thing as a worked out district in the state of California today. When a mining man talks like that it is merely to amuse himself. It is unfortunate that such statements like that creep into print as they do not tend to build up confidence in the mining industry. While we naurally feel that Nevada and Sierra counties are excellent bets from a mining investment standpoint, yet we feel that investments in other fields are bound to help us as they bring out the desirability of the mining industry as a place to put one's spare funds. Take Nevada county for instance. Here is a county that has continuously produced not less than one and three-quarter millions a year in quartz gold since records have been kept by state mining bureau in 1880, a period of fifty years, and yet here is someone in another county saying we are worked out. Does it look like it? And with new properties coming into production each year it looks pretty bright to us for the future of the gold industry in this section. We think Mr. Brophy had better look around the state a little more before he makes any such wild statements.

THE LIONS' CLUBS of Nevada City and Grass Valley put over a good advertising stunt when they landed the district convention which was held here last week. The delegates could not help but feel that here was a section of California that is worht visiting again and again, from a scenic, historic and investing standpoint. The trip to the Joubert mine yesterday to see a hydraulic property in operation was an eye opener and a good argument as to why our placer mines should be permitted to operate once more under government safeguard. Doubtless it was a valuable education to many of the visitors who saw at first hand how a placer mine really operates. It is too bad we could not bring every resident of California, valley farmers included, up to see such a mine in operation, and then to the Bullards Bar dam to see how the debris is impounded. Maybe then we could break down some of the age old prejudice that has existed to militate against our placer mining.

THE TALK MADE by Miss Weber before the service clubs of the community anent the beauties of the Lake Vera section, should prove a good stimulant to our citizens to take a trip out there this summer to see what has been accomplished. There is a fine lodge built for Mills College for a summer camp on one portion of the lake shore. Nearby is Camp Celio, the summer home of the Oakland Camp Fire Girls and made possible by the generosity of W. B. and Gove Celio. A little further around is the Sacramnto Camp Fire Girls camp site. Those three attractions bring hundreds and thousands of visitors through Nevada City each summer. Mighty good advertising for our myriad attractions and it didn't cost us a cent either for the advertising. We need more of these things to utilize the natural beauty of this section.

CALIFORNIA WEATHER showed a rather coy disposition the day of the eclipse last week. With the threatening weather, it looked as if our famous fine weather was going to take a vacation while the scientists gathered from the four corners of the earth at Camptonville were waiting to get their photographs of the phenomenon. But Miss Weather arose to the occasion nobly and just at the strategic moment unfolded the curtains of the heavens and gave the scientists their desired peep at the eclipse.

WITH A FINE PAVED highway twelve miles up Harmony Ridge and forming an integral part of the state highway which is to link the Victory Highway with the Redwood Highway, it is sincerely to be hoped that the state highway commission will let a contract this spring to complete the highway to its eastern terminus. The section through Lake county and the east end from Junction House east are the only uncompletd gaps in the route which was voted by the pople of the state a number of years ago, but which owing to political machinations previous to the Young administration failed of execution and existed mostly on paper. Nevada City and county can thank the present state highway commission for what has been accomplished to date east of Nevada City and we have the promise that the final contract is in the making. With contractors going over the final section the past week it looks as if bids are due to be called for at an early date. Our new highway will mean a lot to this county in bringing transcontinental travel through this section and making it possible to see one of the prettiest parts of California. Let the tourists come.

THE NEW MINING NUMBER of The Nugget should create a lot of renewed interest in what Nevada and Sierra counties have to offer the investor in California gold mines. There are myriad opportunities awaiting capital for development and in a county which has shown such continuously large production for so many years, it is a pretty safe bet that investing in our mineral resources pays good returns. A gross production of $450,000,000 in eighty years and dividends of $100,000,000 from that production ought to be a pretty convincing argument. Our citizens can do no better than mail out a few copies to the outside world to tell what Nevada and Sierra counties have and are doing to provide the precious yellow metal which has stabilized commerce between nations as no other form of currency has ever or ever will do. The article by Congressman Englebright is a notable contribution to the economic side of the production of gold and is worth many readings. The industry is greatly indebted to the congressman for his contribution.

Thousand Carat Gem

A sapphire of record size, said to weigh 1,000 carats, is reported to have been discovered near Mogok, in India, in a mine owned by some poor Burmans. The largest sapphire hitherto known was the jewel cut in the shape of a cluster of flowers which was displayed in the Bombay court at the Empire exhibition at Wembley. It weighed 916 carats. For many years the sapphire had been used as a paperweight by an Indian state official, who did not suspect its value and had allowed his children to play with the jewel. It was found to have a history going back to the Twelfth century.

Chinese Capital Loses Noted "Thieves' Market"

The famous "thieves' market" of China's ancient capital is formally abolished in a decree issued by Gen. Chang Yin-wu, mayor of Peiping. The decree also prohibits the fairs which have been held for centuries there at dawn and after nightfall. The decree quotes a Chinese classical writer as saying that the middle of the day is the time for people to buy and sell. The "thieves' market" has been one of the most picturesque features of Peiping life for generations. To an appointed place hundreds of dealers have brought every conceivable sort of object at six o'clock in the morning, or earlier, and Chinese and foreign residents in search of bargains have been the patrons. It has been popularly supposed that a large number of the articles displayed were stolen, which accounted for their surprising cheapness.

Death-Dealing Habits

The handshake, universal gesture of friendship, is the distributor of disease and death. It has been definitely established that typhoid fever, tuberculosis, diptheria and cholera are among the diseases which may be carried through the handshake. Experiments have shown that the seventh person removed from the original germ bearer may be infected. The danger would be greatly lessened were it not for the common habit of putting the fingers in the mouth. A group of 40 students and teachers in a library were observed during a period of a half hour. Only one person failed to carry his hand to his mouth. Thirteen members of the group were seen to moisten their fingers before turning the leaves of their books, a particularly dangerous habit.

Early American Volcano

North Carolina once prided itself on having a first-class volcano in its midst. It was Bald mountain. Things were pretty bad with Bald mountain in those days. It was acting up in the spring of 1874.

"The mutterings of Bald mountain," the paper reported on April 17, 1874, "were heard distinctly at Long's Mills, Person county, a distance of over 200 miles, on Tuesday last."—Raleigh News and Obeserver.

Substances in Rain Water

The composition of rain water varies. Since rain is considered water vapor it would be chemically pure if it did not gather foreign substances from the atmosphere as it falls to the earth. Rain water washes down out of the air, dust, soot, pollen, spores of fungi and similar material. It contains a percentage of dissolved oxygen, nitrogen, ammonia and carbonic acid gas. In falling through the impure atmosphere of cities it sometimes shows traces of nitric acid, sulphuric acid and other components.

Silver Hoard Put Away by Romans Unearthed

At Caerleon in Monmouthshire, where, a Roman legionary fortress stood to keep the Welsh marches for the Caesars in the Third century, excavators digging there unearthed some interesting secrets.

The one that is the oddest is that of the three centurions of the Second Augustan legion whose names, Quintinus Aquila, Vibius Proculus, and Vibius Severus, have been newly found. One of them must have been a hard-faced man who had done very well out of the war (like some men of a later day).

Whether it was hidden by Quintinius Aquila or by one of the two named Vibius we may never know; but beneath the floor of the quarters of one of these three centurions was a hoard of 280 silver coins. They may have been wrung from the neighboring Britons. Perhaps they were part of the military chest of the soldiers.

Some of the companies of the legion about that time appear to have been given marching orders for the north, where they were to take part in the work on Hadrian's wall.

An Old-Time Favorite

Foxgloves have long been a favorite in the old-fashioned garden. Dating back beyond the time of early European horticulture was find "Digitalis purpurea," the species usually grown, as one of the commonest English wild flowers. It has been popular in America from early Colonial days, says Nature Magasine, and is still found in the outstanding gardens of America and Europe.

THE SCOUT COLUMN

The last week was a busy one for the Nevada City Scouts. In addition to an inovation in that patrol meeting were started in addition to the weekly troop meetings, the boys of Troop 6 were drafted to assist in the scientific preparations by the University of California astronomers in their observations near Campton ville of the total eclipse of the sun on April 28th.

The local boys were probably the first on the ground to report that the path of the total eclipse was considerably greater than the estimated width of the moon's shadow as it swept across the earht's surface. The boys were stationed at two hundred foot intervals along a line 4200 feet in length drawn at right angles across and on each side of the shadow path. This line was estimated to be considerably greater than the width of the shadow would be and it was expected by a process of elimiation of those stationed on the ends of the line and thereby ascertaining the edge of totality on each side of the center of the shadow, that by computation the exact center of the shadow could be determined.

After the boys had all made the records required of them and reported back to the officials it was discovedel that each boy had obtained a total eclipse which proved that th ewidth of th eshadow was considerably greater than the half mile which had been forecast. This was later confirmed in the press dispatches which told of the failure of the aircraft observers to get photographs of the shadw as their cameras were not the proper ones, as they could not include in their focus a sufficient breadth of the earth's surface to extend to the outside boundaries of the shadow, on account of the fact that it proved to be of much greater width than had been anticipated.

The first of a program of patrol meeting were held last week. It is planned to have each patrol meet separatly each week under guidance of an adult and in this way mre intensive work can b edone amng the boys and more individual attention can be given to the Scouts.

The Union Hotel shown in the picture is not on the site of the present building bearing that name, but was situated on Broad street between Leiter's store and the Bost Assay office, at about the site of the old Lutz buildig.

The old brick store on the corner of Main and Commercial streets opposite the meat market of Calanan and Richards, is easily recognized and was occupied by Espenscheid, who specailized in boots and shoes.

This is a most interesting old picture and brings back, as probably nothing else will, a memory of the good old days of long ago and the desire on the part of those who view it t know mre abut this little city in which we live under such entirely different conditions.

CAMPTONVILLE JOTS

Conditions have about resumed normal Tuesday following the last departure of the many astronomers and scientists gathered here for the toatl eclipse which was adjudged such a big success Monday.

GEORGE WAYMAN PASSES

PIKE, May 3.—The passing of George T. Wayman Thursday, long a resident of this section, brought a great wave of regret to the friends who had known him so many years. The funeral services held this afternoon and largely attended from the entire countryside, attested the high esteem in which he was held.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. W. S. Godfrey, and a son, Joseph H., the latter of San Francisco. Two brothers, Thomas and W. H. Wayman of this place and three sisters, Mrs. Alice King and Mrs. F. G. Lowe of Oakland and Mrs. F. Strouder of Arcata also survive.

BOWLING DEADLOCK IS STILL ON IN LEAGUE

The deadlock for top rank in the Elks bowling league still continues and it looks like a neck and neck finish for a number of the teams.

The Curnow team ,which has been showing a great spurt of speed, sluffed off in form when they ran up against the Flynn aggregation from Newcastle in the tourney last week and could annex but one point, their second game going to 847 points for one of hte high games of the tournament. Bigelow tore off nine strikes in a row for a 234 score but his other two efforts were feeble in comparison which pulled him down to but a 489 total for the evening. Bill Wright shot a couple of fancy games with a 190 and 180 but his last one was somewhat spent effort. Curnow was so busy coaching his team to cop the bunting that he failed in his own shooting considerably. The Flynn team, by taking three points, went into a triple tie for sceond place with the Garland and Willoughby aggregations.

The Garland outfit came over to Nevada City and nearly got away with three points but the Willoughbys by scoring 778 in their second game went into a hundred pin lead for totals and nearly got away with the final game also for three points. The teams divided two points each and still continue in a tie. Garland got the only double century of the evening although Willoughby came within three pins in his second game. and Weaver, by virtue of four strikes in a row, annexed 194 in his first game to help his team win by ten pins.

There seems to be no way of heading off the Werner team from Newcastle which has been keeping quite a ways out in front all season.

East Indian Superstition

In the month of May the pipal tree, venerated in India, is said to be in its most benevolent mood; so in Bengal at that season groups of young maidens, all dressed in yellow robes, assemble each morning to pay homage to it. If one of their number happens to become engaged to be married at that time, she is honored with a crown of pipal leaves by her companions, for whom in return she cooks food; and those who partake of that food will also, it is believed, meet with a similar happy fate.

RICHARDS COPS THREE FROM THE CARR TEAM

The Richards cleaver wielders from lower Commercial street neatly turned the tables on the Carr express shovers last week and copped three points at their expense on the local alleys.

Nickless put on one of his good exhibitions which he shows once in a while and rolled two good games. Moomey, however, with two good efforts ,topped him by two pins for ttals. Captain Carr was on the absentee list for the evening which may have had something to do with his team's falling down.

Things looks good for a local league operating under a full head of steam the coming fall. Chairman Tamblyn has been making plans for his committee to get busy on and insure a good fall and winter's sport the coming year. Bill is universally liked and with his intimate knowledge of the game in its various details he will prove a happy selectio for the important post of bowling chief. The first meeting of the committee will be shortly called.

Trace Old Superstition to Historic Incident

Quite a few common sayings, it has been found, come down from old English ballads, while some are founded on some historical incident. The most famous of the latter perhaps is the old Scottish superstition, "Bad luck to kill spiders."

Those who have read the various stories of Robert Bruce, king of Scotland, will recall the one where it is told of the Scottish baron who, awakening one morning disheartened over his attempts to conquer the English and gain the throne of Scotland, saw a spider trying to fasten its web across the rafters of the building.

Twice the spider tried and failed and thereupon Bruce resolved that if its third attempt should be successful, he, too, would try again to defeat the English and gain the Scottish throne.

Bruce, watching the spider, saw it steeling itself for a supreme effort, the spider sprang, and succeeded in fastening its web on the rafter, and, full of courage, Bruce arose to try once again, and like the spider, succeeded. Hence, the superstition, "Bad luck to kill a spider."

Forget About "Hard Luck"

Hard luck is more of a superstition than a fact. We attribute our misfortunes and failures to everything but ourselves, when they are usually due to our own laziness, shiftlessness, carelessness, or lack of foresight.—Grit.

A Fair Cop

For years and years and years—no, let us start again: For weary hours the angler sat watching his float. It never moved, save when a ripple of the river made it tremble and raised false hopes in his heart.

Then, with the snort of an enraged bull and the foot-tread to match, the village constable came to him.

"Fishing ain't allowed in this pond," he snapped. "Beat it!"

The fisherman turned bored eyes to him and jerked the hook out of the water.

"I'm not fishing," he replied, with weary sarcasm in his voice. "I'm teaching this worm to swim."

"A-a-r-h!" snorted the policeman triumphantly. "Then come along with me. Bathing ain't allowed in the pond without costumes, and he ain't got one on!"

Holy Cake

Five-year-old Patricia is very religious. At dinner her aunt said: "Now Pat, there's angel food and layer cake. When you are ready you can have either one."

Some time after she said. "Aunty I'll take a piece of holy cake."

RUSH IS WINNER

Clarence Rush showed his mettle at playing tournament golf when he came home winner in the fourth flight of the Foothill League Championships played at Lincoln last week. He has been one of the consistent golfers of the local aggregation.

Some good scores were turned in on the sweepstakes played on the local course last Sunday. Clifford Carveth and Henry Richards with their handicaps tied for first place with net of 69 while Abrahams with a net of 70 was third.

Rugs Woven by Berbers Before Roman Conquest

Rug making is a most ancient art in Africa, and has its origin in the days before the Roman occupation, when the Berbers, inspired by Asiatic art, made carpets in designs and colorings similar to those woven at the present time by the native tribes. Rug making at first was a home industry, and the art of weaving was handed down from one generation to another. In a great number of tribes a head craftsman set up the loom, after which the women, under his direction, wove the rug according to his design. Since the French conquest of Algeria, the rug making industry has developed rapidly, owing to active propaganda on the part of the natives as well as to the creation of numerous industrial schools. Each region in Algeria has its own methods of working and produces a characteristic type of rug. Berber rugs are woven of a faded wool and look almost like tapestry. The Arab weave, on the other hand, has a thick, short, soft pile, not unlike the Smyrna rugs. A type known as Guergour has a central isolated motif on a plain background surrounded by a floral border. Its oriental origin is undeniable. Kalaa rugs come in shades of yellow, blue, green and brown, and have wide fringes.

Venetian Canals

Venice is built upon islands, which served as refuge for inhabitants of neighboring cities during attacks by barbarians. Its strategic advantage was so great that many fugitives remained, and the lagoons which separated the islands were the natural streets. These islands were formed from the silt and debris brought down by rivers, and the soil is an oozy mud that makes building difficult. Roadbeds would be extremely difficult to make, while canals are, obviously, easy to construct and maintain.

BLUES WIN GAME

The Nevada City Bluse took the Challenge team into camp last Sunday by the lopsided score of 26 to 4, three of the Challenge runs coming in the ninth inning when the boys let down a little i their work. Hoskins, in the box for the locals, was well ight invincible with the opposing bastmen. Johnny Sbaffi was struck on the head by a batted ball during the game and was rushed to the Ssanitarium for repairs.

Technological Education

The beginning of technological education may be traced back to ancient times, as is evidenced by the construction of the pyramids of Egypt, the aqueducts, military roads and fortifications of the ancient Romans. During the Middle ages there was a general lack of interest in learning of all kinds. It was principally conducted by the monks and similar religious organizations, whose interest was more in the arts than in the sciences. Technological schools were founded in the Eighteenth century. In the United States the work of Dr. Jacob Bigelow did much to further interest in technological studies. He published his "Elements in Technology" in 1829.

QUALITIES NECESSARY FOR LIFE SUCCESS

By ELIZABETH THOMAS

How can a person succeed in life? To attain the highest success in life a person must have certain qualities. He doesn't have to be rich. The poorest man may be much more successful than one who has al lthe advantages of being wealthy. I really think that most people who are the greatest are at first often poor and have to work hard to rise. Everything depends on the character of the individual and not on his financial conditions. I think the outstanding qualities are perserverance, conscientiousness, unselfishness, intellect, good morals, honesty and truthfulness.

First, let us discuss perserverane, one of the most important qualities. This means that a person shuld be steady and persistent. That is, if he starts something to stick to it until it is finished, no matter what the difficulties are. He who succeeds must have perserverance.

In the second place, he must be conscientious. By this I mean faithfulness in all his undertakings. A person may have the ability to do his work well but would be neglectful doing it He must not do his work in a slip shod manner, but must do it conscientiously and well

Third, he must be unselfish He must be willing to give help to others as well as himself

Fourth, he must have a certain amount of intellect Along with conscientiousness, perserverance, and unselfishness, he must possess a certain amount of intelligence and ability to do his work

Fifth, good morals certainly are an essential quality He must be morally strong and refrain from use of liquors or the habit of gambling I know a very intelligent man who was making a wonderful name for himself The only fault he had was drinking. He drank himself to death. Who knows to what heights he might have reached had he stopped drinking, for he certainly had a brilliant future?

Sixth, and last are the qualities, honesty and truthfulness Of course, we all know the importance of these qualities He must be trustworthy and square. If he is honest and truthful there is no doubt as to his character. When I think of honesty it reminds me of a man who failed in life because of dishonesty. This man had a responsible position He did his work well and was trusted by everyone, but temptation overcame him and he became dishonest in some of his dealings Of course he lost his position, his friends and his only chance for success in life It would be hard to say which of these qualities is the most important because they are all dependent on one another

BOY SCOUTS

Monday the Boy Scouts of Troop Six were sent to Oak Valley by the University of California to observe the exact center of the path of total eclipse.

A number of Scouts from hte grammar school and Warren Chapman, Bob Tucker, Harry Davey and Bill Sharp of the high school made the trip.

Each scout was given a sheet of paper with a circle on it and a straight line exactly through the middle of the circle. This line was to be held vertical. At the time of the total eclipse the boys were to note what portion of the sun they saw. The ones who saw just a few dots of light were exactly in the center. The boys did their work very well.

MOTION PICTURE ACTORS

Saturday, April 26, the members of the General Science classes went to Camptonville to see the work done in preparation for the eclipse. The work was all explained to them and while they were looking over some machinery, some newsreels were being taken with the classes were included as a background. The students considered this a very unusual experience.

MOTHERS' TEA DAY

Mothers' Tea Day has been an annual custom celebrated by the parents of the students at the Nevada City High School. Next Friday, May 9, all the mothers are cordially invited to visit the High School in the afternoon. At 3:25 tea will be served down stairs in the High School gymnasium. An interesting program has been planned for all who attend. Mothers' Tea Day is sponsored by the Girls' Association and promises to be one of the most interesting activities of the High School this year.

ASSEMBLY

An assembly was called to order Wednesday morning at 11:20 by the principal, Mr. Wilson.

Bill Rector gave an interesting talk of the opportunities of Citizens' Military Training Camp. N. C. H. S. has not sent any representatives to this organization for the last few years. The training is free of charge and offers wonderful opportunities for boys between the ages of 17 and 27.

Madeline Himes, a member of the Honor Soiety, was called upon to give an account of the trip this same party took to Chico a few weeks ago. She told in an interesting manner the advantages and opportunities of this organization. She spoke of the large members the other schools had in comparison to this school and she urged everyne to try to aattain the marks that will qualify him to belong to this organization.

Mr. Kjorlie was then called upon and he gave an interesting talk on his visit through Yellowstone Park. He illustrated his statements with slides which were very interesting. At the conclusion of his talk the assembly was dismissed.

ART EXHIBIT

An exhibit of Fine Art Prints will be held at the high school May 7, 8, 9. The paintings, reproductions of the world's great masters, have been loaned to the school thrugh the courtesy of the Colonial Art Company of Oklahoma. The aims of the exhibit are to raise funds in order to obtain pictures for the school and to assist in the general art appreciation of the school and community.

The reproductions are of the finest type produced showing the original color as well as brush strokes of the original canvasses.

Among the pictures to be shown are noted, Michael Angelo's "Creation of Man," Holbein's "Jane Seymour," Botticelli's "Madonna of the Figs," and many others of great interest and educational value.

The admission charge will be ten cents for grammar school children, fifteen cents for high school children and twenty-fice cents for adults. The entire proceeds will go to the school picture fund.

The exhibit on Friday, May 4, will be given in conjunction with the "Mothers' Day Tea," an annual affair given by the Girls' Association. There will be no charge for the tea, but there will be the small fee for the exhibit .

The exhibit has been shown in many places and is very worth while.

SENIOR GIRLS STAG

Do you think the senior girls make better looking men than the senior boys? They certainly proved it Friday, April 25, when they held their annual "stag party".

Each girl was attired in boy's clothes. Some appeared in the typical dress of a farmer, others in the last minute clothes of the well-dressed gentleman.

The stag party took the form of a progressive dinner. The first course was held at the home of Nadine Sutton. The second course, a raviola dinner, was served at the home of Katherine Parsons.

After the young men had eaten with appetites in proportion to their make-up, htey journeyed to Grass Valley where they attended a barn dance which was held at the Grass Valley High School.

Mrs. Kjorlie and Miss Whelan acted as chaperons of th eparty which proved to be one of the most successful events of the year.

THE NUGGET PAGE OF MINING NEWS

THE MINING INDUSTRY

Every old times knows and nourishes the most fascinating adventure in human history—Mining.

The lure of mining lies in the fact that, there are bonanza possibilities in the businses. The miner refuses to believe the cards of fortune are stacked against him.

Mining has and is receiving unnecessary and unjust censure and, most of it comes from exceedingly unreliable sources. Most of this unjust criticism comes from those who have put a little money in—"took a flyer," as they flippantly say. Not content with a gembler's luck they decry and villify a legitimate and fundamental industry. There is no more sane reason for losing money in mining stocks than in the stocks in any other of the recognized industries or commercial enterprises of every day life.

Let that statement sink deep.

And also please bear in mind that there are no more failures in honest, intelligent mining than in the so-called industries. Of course by mining is not meant ordinary gambling, to put a few dollars into shares as a flyer.

Why not look upon mining as a business and give it the same thought and cnsideration given a farm investment—value the property and analyze the conditions. There are good and bad ,successes and failures in every industry

It may be there are pretenders in the business, active for the sheer purpose of making trades or stock sales. Those who make no earnest attempt to build up a profitable industry, where hypocrisy imposes on and credulous and fraud is practiced on the unprotected. With this class there is no argument. They fatten upon the industry as a fungus clings to a tree, without making a constructive gesture. Briefly, they are crooks.

Investigate before you invest. If you are ill you call a docter. If you are in trouble you consult a lawyer. Mining is blessed with men of equal brains and learning with these professions.

It seems incredible that a business so primitive and fundamental as mining should be a signal for notes of warning from honorable, intelligent people. Delving in the ground is hard ,rough, dangerous work. Drills do not operate themselves.

One of the chief causes of greatest loss is traced to inflated valuations which lose touch with realities and soar far beyond reasonable prospects of earnings. Wild schemes of speculation invariably end in panic and distress.

BUY RIGHT AND YOU CAN SELL RIGHT.

Valuable discoveries are being made almost daily somewhere. along the Rocky Mountains or the Sierra. Find the spot and you can win. more opportunities for large returns

There is no business that offers more opportunities for large returns than conservative ventures in well selected mining properties—Jackson Dispatch Democrat.

INYO COUNTY

The faulted Hesson ore shoot is reported picked up in the Santa Rose mine near Keeler. The vein faulted at a depth of 200 feet and after 600 feet of prospecting it was recovered 150 feet deeper. Production since 1914 is said to be nearly one million dollars.

MARIPOSA COUNTY

Rich ore is reported from the Feliciana mine where much development work has been going on. The mine has been in steady operation for the past four years.

A crew of 13 men is driving ahead to cut under the rich ore shoot opened up in the Buena Vista property two years ago . It is estimated that there are several hundred feet to go.

Belle McCord Roberts, newspaper woman of Long Bach, has bonded three claims on Bear creek owned by A. Gardner. The shaft is to be sunk 50 feet deeper in order to make a thorough sampling of the vein. Miss Roberts is principal owner of the Buena Vista property.

Shaft sinking at the Brown Bear property near Bagby is making good progress and is entering the sulphide zone at a depth of 170 feet below the surface. The vein is said to run from 3 to 6 feet wide T. J. Long, treasurer of the Brown Bear Mining and Exploration Company, has been granted permission to sell stock. J. W. Warford of Mariposa is supervising engineer.

A contract has been given to Wm. Cardes of Angels Camp to sink the shaft at the Mother Lode Extension property 200 feet below the present 200 foot level The ore going through th emill is reported as averaging $22 per ton and the company expects to go on a dividend paying basis on July 1st. F. E. Lautenschlager is manager.

Steve Pendola of Bear Valley, while working on a county road, picked up a $10 nugget out of the road. Some years ago Pendola is reported to have found several hundred dollars in gold coin near the same spot.

The Who Knows group near Clearinghouse has been taken over by the Yosemite National Gold Mines Corporation, newly formed, which purposes extensive development work. The shaft will be sunk to a greater depth. A bunk and cook house is being erected. The Who Knows vein is said to be a fissure paralleling the famous Hite vein and is believed to intersect the well known Original vein which was a divident payer for a long time.

Chicago capitalists have bonded the Buffalo claim in the Bear creek district and expect to commence development work this month. The property is near the Feliciana mine and there is said to be several hundred tons of good milling ore on the dump. The property is owned by Mr. and Mrs. V. Thorpe of Oakland.

MONO COUNTY

Unwatering of several old properties in the Bodi edistrict by the Treadwell Yukon Mining Company is progressing satisfactorily and as soon as completed the old workings will be retimbered and the ground will be thoroughly prospected as old records indicate that large deposits of profitable ore were left when a rush of water drove out the miners and proved too heavy for the pumps to handle.

AMADOR COUNTY

A one hundred ton mill is being erected at the Gibson mine in the Volcano district Good values are reported in hte development work so far.

FROM OUR READERS

Editor Nugget:—It was almost a certainty that the eclipse observations at Camptonville last week would attract some of the road hogs this way. It did, and another victim of reckless driving lies in the hospital with a fratured skull. If it were the driver of this car, which smashed into a truck near Camptonville, it wouldn't be so bad.

Practically always it is the city Barney Oldfields who cruise around the sharp turns on our mountain grades, and instead of using the skull a little, they seem to think they have a special right of way over everything and everybody else on the road. A good, heavy truck is just the right vehicle for these birds to go up against and the heavier the better. If a touring car had been in this driver's path the chances are that someone would have been killed.

The average mountain driver knows full well that he may expect to meet a car coming in the opposite direction at any moment and he always endeavors to keep well to the right an dtravels at such a speed that he can stop within a few feet. The careful driver realizes that about sixteen miles an hour is all the speed he can safely make on such a crooked piece of road as the Downieville highway between the Middle Yuba and Camptonville.

It will be recalled that just a few years ago, during the construction of this roa,d three men were killed at Fiddle Creek through just such reckless driving. Another speed king from the city, traveling at an excessive rate of speed ,was unable to make the turn over a temporary bridge and landed, a mass of wrekage, among the boulders.

Last week the highway was being scraped and a ridge of earth on either side of the road onfined traffice in many places to a width not enough for two machines to pass. To drive over such a highway at an excessive rate of speed or to hog the left side of the road should be made a criminal offense.
